WHAT IS HUMAN TRAFFICKING?

Human trafficking is the illegal trade of human beings. It's the recruitment, control, and use of people for their bodies and for their labour. Human trafficking is hidden, fast-growing, and complex—generating billions of dollars each year through the exploitation of millions of men, women, and children. All over the world, the vulnerable are being recruited and exploited at the hands of traffickers.

WHAT ARE THE MAIN FORMS OF TRAFFICKING?

SEX TRAFFICKING	LABOUR TRAFFICKING
Forcing, deceiving, or coercing a person to perform a commercial sex act. Any minor under the age of 18 who is induced to perform a commercial sex act is a victim of human trafficking according to the United Nations Protocol on Trafficking in Persons (Palermo Protocol) Article 3, regardless of whether there is force, fraud, or coercion. [1] Individual legislation in the different States and Territories across Australia also make it a crime for minors under the age of 18 to formally work in the commercial sex industry.	Forcing a person to work in captivity for little or no pay. It is recruitment, harbouring, transportation, provision, or obtaining a person for labour or services through the use of force, fraud, or coercion for the purposes of involuntary servitude, peonage, debt bondage, or slavery.

WHERE CAN HUMAN TRAFFICKING OCCUR?

Victims of human trafficking can be deceived, forced, or coerced to work in both legitimate and illegitimate industries. Sex trafficking specifically may occur in the following industries:

- “escort services, illicit massage services, outdoor sexual solicitation, residential brothels, bars and strip clubs, pornography production, personal sexual servitude, and livestreaming of sexual exploitation.”<sup>2</sup>

WHAT ARE COMMON SEX TRAFFICKING RECRUITMENT METHODS?

Sex trafficking can be understood through three elements: acts, means, and purpose.<sup>3</sup>

- Acts: when a trafficker recruits, harbours, transports, provides, obtains, patronises, or solicits another person to engage in commercial sex
- Means: when a trafficker uses force, fraud, or coercion
- Purpose: to engage in a commercial sex act

WHO IS AT RISK OF BECOMING A VICTIM OF SEX TRAFFICKING?

Human trafficking victims can be any “age, race, gender identity, sex, ethnicity, nationality, immigration status, and socioeconomic class.”<sup>4</sup> Victims will not always come forward to seek help if they are in a position to do so because of vulnerability, language barriers (where foreign victims are involved), or fear of law enforcement.<sup>5</sup> In other instances, individuals may be abused, exploited, or trafficked by family or close friends, and not identify as a victim for a number of reasons, such as familial relationships.

While anyone can become a victim of human trafficking, there are certain groups of people who are more vulnerable to trafficking and exploitation because of their situation.

People at higher risk of becoming a trafficking victim may include:

- Persons with Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) that include stressful or traumatic events that occurred during childhood
- Persons identified as migrants, irregular migrants, stateless populations, refugees, or foreign-born, and other minority populations, including racial and ethnic minorities
- Persons with physical or intellectual disabilities
- Persons facing employment instability, financial insecurity, and debt
- Children, unaccompanied minors, minors in child welfare systems
- Youth who identify in the population of LGBTQ+
- Persons with low self-esteem (self-concepts)
- Persons with substance abuse and addictions
- Children and youth in foster care or runaways
- Persons experiencing housing instability, poverty, or strain from low income

HOW CAN SEX TRAFFICKING HAPPEN?

The loverboy method of trafficking, also known as the romeo method of recruitment, appears at first to be a healthy relationship, often (but not always) involving an older man pretending to be a loving boyfriend. However, over time, it turns into an unhealthy relationship that leads to sex trafficking. Traffickers gain trust and then exploit the victim by luring them into trafficking under the pretenses of a romantic relationship through grooming and abuse.<sup>6</sup> It is important to note that even though the term "loverboy" is used, traffickers are not only males just as victims are not only females.

Survivors in A21's Aftercare program who have been exploited using this tactic have predominantly been between the ages of 18-25. Next to trafficking for forced labour through false job opportunities, the loverboy tactic is the second-highest identified method across all A21 aftercare cases globally.

WHERE ARE VICTIMS OF SEX TRAFFICKING RECRUITED?

While recruitment can happen anywhere, some places are more dangerous than others, including:

- Online platforms such as dating sites, apps, and social media that provide the opportunity for traffickers to establish contact and gather information from vulnerable people
- Group homes, shelters, and detention centres because loverboys understand they are collections of vulnerable people who are often experiencing hardship
- Popular places such as schools, shopping centres, parks, or concerts that contain large gatherings of youth<sup>7</sup>

Healthy vs Unhealthy Relationships

WHAT ARE HEALTHY AND UNHEALTHY RELATIONSHIPS?

Loverboys approach vulnerable victims and deceive them into what appears to be a healthy relationship, pretending to be a friend or a boyfriend/girlfriend. The process of recruitment can happen quickly or take place over an extended period of time. In reality, these relationships are unhealthy.

- ▶ A healthy relationship is one that is based on respect, honesty, trust, communication, compromise, commitment, healthy boundaries, and a mutual building of each other's self-confidence.<sup>8</sup> Establishing strong protective factors like personal identity of one's value, purpose, and worth through self-concepts are essential in healthy relationships. Protective factors are conditions or attributes that help promote well-being within a relationship and reduce or prevent the risk of a problem or harm in a situation.
- ▶ An unhealthy relationship demonstrates one partner forcing the other partner to sacrifice friendships, family, school, personal goals, or even their emotional well-being while in the relationship. These relationships can be physically, emotionally, and mentally abusive, often leading to a Trauma Bonding cycle. This can appear as a deep bond, loyalty, or emotional attachment between a person (victim) and the other person in the relationship (loverboy/abuser) that is ultimately destructive.

Healthy relationship behaviours are highlighted in the inner circle and unhealthy relationship behaviours are listed around the outer circle.

TABLE 2: Relationship Indicators and Safeguards

Unhealthy relationships have the potential to develop into human trafficking, making it important to put healthy safeguards in place.

Relationship Safeguards

- Have a safety network (circle of trust) and maintain relationships with your safety network by sharing about your new relationship.
- Ask questions about your partner to get to know them personally.
- Keep important numbers on your person at all times, including the number of someone you feel safe contacting if you are in trouble.
- Protect your rights. Your identification documents and personal property belong to you.
- Let your partner know if something makes you uncomfortable. If your honesty is met with aggression or punishment, inform a trusted friend/relative or the police.
- Be aware of your surroundings to identify potential safety concerns. Trust your judgment.
- Always keep your own personal items with you including your mobile phone and bank account access. You can also make copies of important documents, keep digital backups, and/or store with a trusted friend.
- Establish consent boundaries, allowing you to use assertive communication to make personal decisions.
- Create a preventive plan on how to avoid dangerous situations and think of protective ways to respond rather than react if danger arises or you feel threatened.
- Ask for help. Contact the police or a trusted friend.

TAKE ACTION

If you or someone you know is in an unhealthy relationship, or if you suspect human trafficking could be taking place, respond by:

- Contacting someone in your safety network/trust circle
- Reporting suspected sex trafficking, call: 131 237 (131 AFP)
- For immediate danger or in case of an emergency, call: 000
